Government agency

As a result of the Strategic Plan for Co-Locating State Agencies, the State of Minnesota retained the team of HGA and Keewaydin to conduct a pre-design study to define the scope and financial implications of a new campus for the Department of Corrections and Department of Public Safety.

HGA conducted the programming and site feasibility plans, and Keewaydin conducted a preliminary site search and financial comparison of options for this new campus.

The project was completed in June, 2001 and is being considered as part of broader potential consolidation with the Department of Human Services and the Department of Health.
